It will feature Indira (Indi) Riadi, who will be presenting the methods and findings of her PhD research project, focusing on exploring the social determinants of mental health of 2SLGBTQ+ seniors who live in Vancouver's West End. Their findings touched on a few key themes including the importance of community-based services to improve mental wellbeing, social isolation, digital literacy during and after COVID-19, and current gaps in services. We will have time at the end for Q&A and open discussion.
